

THE FESSENDEN SCHOOL WILLIAM ELFERS CENTER FOR THE ARTS

In an effort to bring renewed focus to the arts at Fessenden, this project includes the renovation to the existing theater, arts studio, and music practice rooms. The addition of a new music performance room expands the existing structure and creates new spaces for community involvement and student exhibition.

MIDDLESEX SCHOOL BASS PAVILION FOR THE ARTS

The performing arts at Middlesex are now supported with a new central stage that includes updated theatrical lighting, sound, and orchestra pit. Additionally, a new studio theater, dressing rooms, and set-building support spaces add to the capacity of the performing arts program.

MIDDLESEX SCHOOL RACHEL CARSON MUSIC & CAMPUS CENTER

A decommissioned power plant was fully transformed into a new campus center and recital hall, both of which take advantage of the building's generous interior spaces and robustly designed structure – while expanding the music program and reorienting the campus core.

MIDDLESEX SCHOOL DANOFF VISUAL ARTS CENTER

The design of the Danoff Center for the Arts includes a new visual arts wing that integrates a rich cross-section of artistic disciplines with gallery, studio, and classroom spaces for digital arts, photography, ceramics, woodworking, and art history.

POPE FRANCIS PREPARATORY SCHOOL

This new high school combined two local institutions, one of which was destroyed by a 2011 tornado. The new facility and campus have proven instrumental in STEAM instruction, social enrichment, and academic experimentation.
